EXPERIENCE

While I do not have formal work experience, I have invested time in developing my understanding of business and customer relations through extensive reading.

Books such as "Rich Dad Poor Dad" have provided me with valuable insights into financial management and the importance of customer-centric service.

"Zero to One" and "$100 Startup" have further broadened my perspective on innovation and entrepreneurship, skills that I am eager to apply in a retail setting. I am confident that my enthusiasm for learning and my proactive approach to self-improvement will allow me to excel in a sales role.
